WEATHER BETTER; NEW MONTHS UP

Trade Interests Support Market On Theory That Big Crop Improbable—Money Conditions Tighter, But Cotton Feels Effect Lightly-Spots Are Inactive.

By George Williamson.

More diversity of opinion prevailed in the cotton market during the past week and prices at the close were irregular compared with a week previous. The near months were slightly lower, while the distant were moderately higher, apparently reflecting the influence of present economic situation and appreciation of the handicap under which the new crop is starting. More stringency in the financial markets and the spread of the reactionary feeling contributed to the hesitancy, while absence of improvement in the spot department and the circulation of a few notices for May delivery also induced some liquidation, as the near positions are very-near the level of spots, thus removing one of the incentives for bullish activity. Growing appreciation of the need of a large crop for another season and the discounts on fall and winter months offered incentive to absorption of offers around 35 cents for October.

Finals for the week were from 40

Weather News First.

Weather news was given foremost place early in the week as the dominant influence, and map readers with any sort of reputation found a ready hearing. Some strength which was prefaced on improvement in the stock market following advices that the worst was ever in Japan and failure of some scare predictions to be verified in this country was quickly dissiplated on the opining day when there seemed chance of some rains in the dry sections of Texas.

Our the week end there was some little rain in the Southwest, but it of it in the central and eastern belts, where anything but rain was wanted. The result was that the market gave attention to the unfavorable news and bulls took charge again and rain values up, though it was chieffyin the distant positions, twesteday as a first reported, while conditions were better in the wet sections of the contral and eastern belt. removing one of the incentives for bullish activity. Growing appreciation of the need of a large crop for another season and the discounts on fall and winter months offered incentive to absorption of offers around 35 cents for October.

Finals for the week were from 46 points off to 110 up in New York, while New Orleans showed a loss of 12 to a gain of 192 points. The narrowing of differences between the old and the new positions lent some encouragement to talk of a possibility that the latter might easily get on a parity and maybe go higher than July. Considerable buying of October by various interests, presumably as hedges against needs of the better grades as soon as they may be had, tended to increase faith in the wisdom of such talk, vague as it was.

In the spot department business continued limited, and the burden is still on the shoulders of the South, with the banks carrying a large part of the load through its loans. There was, however, no suggestion that calling of loans would be pushed far enough to occasion sacrificing of the cotton, although it can be safely said that if buyers with money would show themselves in almost any part of the beit they would be able to pick up some very cheap cotton. It is a case in a measure of concessions not being offered because it is recognized that such would likely do no good, unless much larger than necessity yet seems to suggest.

COTTON MARKETS

Weather Is More Favorable, But Holiday Feeling Prevails in New Orleans.

Saturday Afternoon, May 1.

With the only speculative market in New Orleans there was little interest during the short session, as the Southern center rarely gets far from shore white going it alone. Weather conditions during the past 24 hours were better in the belt, except that Texas continues without precipitation and chances this morning were not very good for any over the week end. More complaints as to replanting being necessary and scarcity of good seed seemed to induce some support, but prices varied but little. Finals were quiet and from 13 points off to 5 up, which calls for Liverpool on Monday to be 4 to 6 points to the bad.

In the spot markets sales were just a bit larger than they have been, Memphis reporting 550, New Orleans 552, Houston 557, Little Rock 1.112 and Dallas 820. New Orleans reduced quotations 25 points, middling to 41c, with the others unchanged.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, May 1.—On the first call in the cotton market today prices fell off I to 5 points under scattered selling, but after the call there was more demand and prices did better. At the end of the first hour of business the active months were 5 to 15 points over the close of yesterday, July standing at 38.10c and October at 35.28c. Buying was due mainly to complaints from various sections of the belt that replanting was necessary. The market was held from advancing strongly by the favorable weather in nearly all portions of the cotton region. ions of the cotton region.

Moderate selling came in on reports hat the harbor strike here was inter that the harbor strike here was inter-ferring with the movement of cotton, but offerings did not come on the mar-ket in any great volume. The forecast of dry weather for the greater part of the belt was regarded favorably but bullish traders offset its effect by point-ing out that continued dry weather in. Texas would prevent planting in the droughty counties of that state. Spots closed quiet at decline of 25 points; ordinary, 23.75c; good ordinary.

CHICAGO, May 1.—Improved weather for farm work tended today to give some advantage to bears in the corn market. Tightness of money counted also as a depressing factor. Opening quotations, which ranged from ½c to 4c lower, with July $1.64 to $1.64½ and September $1.57 to $1.57½, were followed by upturns all round.

The close was unsettled, 2%c net lower to ½c gain with July $1.65% to $1.65½ and September, $1.57½ to $1.57½.

Oats, like corn, were eased somewhat by sunshine and warmth. After opening %c lower to ½c advance, including July at 88½ to 88%c, the market hardened a little.

Henvy deliveries on May contracts forced the provision market down grade.

on listed stocks and bonds in the long run.

The Kriebel Plan of buving for keeps is proving profitable to large numbers of investors.

It enables you to control five times the volume that would be possible on a cash basis, yet you are not subject to margin calls, because it is an outright purchase.

You get all dividends while paying, and your money becomes productive as earned, without waiting for a large sum to accumulate.

Send for full information, and also ask for our vest pocket dictionary of Financial Terms. Every investor should have it. Address Dept. 1.

"Your letter of the 14th, telling me about something that happened 'away back in September, 1919,' received. If you hadn't reminded me of it I wouldn't have known there is such a thing as a tire on my car. Owing to the fact that those KELLYS have not yet begun to show wear after more than 3,000 miles, it is highly probable that it will be several more 'Septembers' before you hear of me again-unless it's to get a little free air. "F. R. T."

This is why more people are buying our high-grade tires every daythey can depend on them and the service that goes with them.
